A SUGGESTION FOR BETTER SCHOOLS.

"The Little Red School House." Now that Independence Day has been occupying the attention of the country, we are reminded that the red, white and blue, and the little red school house are chief among the visible factors in patriotism. As the orators have taken splendid care of the flag, let us consider the "little red school house," or more correctly speaking, the rural school. Modern day contrivances like the telephone, automobile, rural free delivery, etc., have revolutionized country life, and the country school teacher who has a little flock of children in her care, and attempts to teach everything from the kindergarten to geometry, has been called upon to defend her time-honored and sacred pedestal from the attacks of people who claim she is too old-fashioned to be continued on her job. It is pointed out that country people own automobiles, and that by their use children from a wide area can be brought to a central school much more easily than by the process by which they formerly struggled to get to the crude little building which was a burden upon a few taxpayers.

The Plan.

The government can do as much for the country school as it has for rural life in other directions. The suggestion which follows has never been generally discussed. Here it is:

An Auto Passenger Post.

The Government rural routes, in certain districts, to be readjusted in order that mail may be distributed and collected on a twice a day basis, the vehicles used being large auto motors, similar to what are commonly called "rural neck wagons" in cities. These vehicles are capable of carrying from thirty to forty children to and from their schools, and a five cent fare each way would relieve the Government from any additional expense for the service. A number of these routes as at present could be run in different directions, centering at a point where a consolidated country-school house, first class in every respect, with a full corps of the best teachers, and the very best course of studies, would be the pivot around which the plan would be constructed.

Opinions Wanted.

In order to obtain the sentiment of people living in the country and small towns, it is desired that all persons interested in the above plan, including politicians and others in the postal service, as well as teachers, parents, and others who may have views upon the matter, communicate their opinions. The views will be placed before the Postmaster General, then to the U. S. Postmaster. Write the editor of this paper, and he will forward the communication, or it may be sent direct to the correspondent of the Citizen, in such event it should be directed to J. H. Jones, Bethel Bunting, Wachusett St. It is also suggested that the above plan might be properly discussed by local correspondents in their local papers, and in all such cases a copy of the paper should be mailed to the Citizen, in place. Mr. Jones desires to personally present the views of the writers, whether favorable or adverse, to the Postmaster General.

UNCLE SAM'S VACATION.

There are approximately forty thousand people at work in the National Capital who will take thirty days leave to which they are entitled, and the following seems the logical plan. At the greater part of the time the bulk of these folks will be on their vacation. It will be well to note that the Government employees will be running short-handed during the summer months. The Agent General has been one of the most active in the cause of labor during the past two summers, and I believe that there were then as many as twenty thousand men working on the roads, and the number will be even larger this summer. The roads will be in bad condition due to the recent rains. During the summer the Agent General, Mr. Hayes, a sister of Mrs. Armstrong, who entertained at the White House.

BETHEL INN

Happenings of the Week

Mr. L. H. Page and Dr. C. A. Church, accompanied by Mr. W. S. Page and J. W. Bowman returned on Wednesday after a ten days fishing trip at Eastport. Mr. L. H. Page and Mr. Bowman are both prominent in automobile circles—Mr. Page being a president of the Stevens-Duryea Company and Mr. Bowman being the eastern representative of the Maxwell Company. The entire party including Mrs. L. H. Page and Mrs. C. A. Church left on Sunday for a trip through the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. James N. Fuller of Passaic, N. J., arrived at the Inn on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller are extensive travelers and for many years have spent their summers in Europe, but this year decided upon Bethel for their summer sojourn and will remain here for the season. They spend the winter seasons at Mr. Seavey's Magnolia Springs Hotel, Magnolia Springs, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben L. Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hutchins of Boston were guests at the Inn on Sunday.

Mr. A. Shuman and party also of Boston were luncheon guests on Sunday.

Mr. William Bingham, 2nd, was the host at an informal dinner party on Sunday evening. Among those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Gehring, Miss Mary True, Mrs. John True, Miss Natalie True, Miss Eleanor True, Mr. Hulsey Spencer, Mr. W. J. Upton.

The Inn showed its spirit of patriotism by an elaborate display of Chinese lanterns strung along the porches and through the trees. The dining room was also prettily decorated in recognition of the day, and during the dinner a happy concert of table fireworks was given to the astonishment and pleasure of the diners, as it was something entirely new in dinner service.

Rosa, W. C. Curtis, J. H. Little and T. C. Chapman, together with their families, were dinner guests on Sunday evening.

After the fireworks display the guests returned to the Inn and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing in the music room.

The Elms, formerly the Elm Inn, in nearing completion of its improvements and the rooms are practically all rented for the season. The Willows, formerly the Clark Inn, has been excepted by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Upton for the past month.

The golf links are improving daily and the recent heavy rain has put the putting green in excellent condition. Water pipes are being laid to all the tees so that from now on they will be perfectly in the line of the fairways.

Mr. W. Putnam Page, who is returning to real estate and insurance car in Boston, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes for the past month.

Mr. H. O. Gundell, who has been a guest of the Inn during the month of June, left for Bretton Woods on Sunday. He will return to Bethel about August 1st.

Avitale during the week: Mr. and Mrs. William McLean, Boston, Mass.; Misses McLean, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Martin, Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Martin, Lowell, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Steele, Portland, Me.; Mrs. M. G. Abbott, Bronx, New York City; Miss Ruthie Prochnik, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Stanislaw Bednarz, Boston, Mass.; Mr. H. M. Tracy, Utica, N. Y.; Miss Tracy Williams, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Francesco, Montreal, Que.; Mr. A. Beauchamp, Montreal, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Armstrong were the guests of Mr. Armstrong's mother on Tuesday, and on Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were guests of Mrs. Hayes. They are now staying at the Inn in Bad condition due to the recent rains. During the evening they were guests of Mr. Hayes, a sister of Mrs. Armstrong, who entertained at the White House.

AUTOMOBILE AND HIGHWAY LAWS

Brief Digest of Laws in Effect July 3, 1915

For the information of its members, municipal officers and others interested in highway improvement and road conditions, the Maine Automobile Association has caused to be prepared a digest of the principal laws pertaining to highways enacted by the last Legislature. These laws became effective July 3d. The most important of the new laws is perhaps the one relating to the speed and control of automobiles. To meet existing conditions many radical changes have been made. Particular attention is called to what towns must or must not do relative to speed signs.

Another important law is the one providing for the employment of a patrolman in each town on unimproved roads in connection with the state aid roads.

The law in respect to the use of the road machine after August 10th is very important. This law provides that where the road machine is used after that date the road must be surfaced with six inches of gravel or the town loses its state aid.

The privilege given towns to take road material by right of eminent domain will be beneficial in many places. The law compelling towns to cut the bushes along the highways and that the abutters shall do the same annually thereafter will be of great benefit.

The law compelling towns to erect sign posts where one highway crosses another was amended. As it stands today towns failing to erect sign posts are subject to fine of from $10 to $50 to be recovered upon complaint of any person, one-half of fine going to party making complaint.

After many years' agitation the Legislature enacted a bridge law, but it has the referendum attached and is to be referred to the people at the next general election for their adoption or rejection.

The employment of county prisoners on the roads in Cumberland County which began this spring is a wonderful success and should be followed by the other large counties of the state. See our editorial about this.

After the fireworks display the guests returned to the Inn and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing in the music room.

OF INTEREST TO MAINE HOUSEWIVES.

Some Timely Suggestions as to the Preparation of Summer Beverages, Good Things for Sandwiches and Other Recipes of Value.

In preparing summer beverages, one important secret is the preparation of the foundation syrup, as this gives the richness found in Southern compounds often lacking in our home brews. Usually the syrup is formed simply by boiling together sugar and water in proportion of a pint of water for every pound of sugar, but occasionally ginger root or sassafras bark or a bit of mint or wintergreen is steeped in the syrup and strained out, after the flavor is extracted, to leave a clear syrup. Whether it is boiled plain or with the flavoring elements, the sugar and water are placed in a saucepan and allowed to simmer gently until the sugar is dissolved, and then boiled without stirring until the syrup will spin a delicate thread. When wanted for immediate use the fruits and flavors are added at once while the syrup is still hot, after the roots or herbs used for additional flavor have been strained out. When prepared in great quantity for mixing later with various juices and fruits for a variety of drinks, the syrup is bottled while hot and kept constantly on hand for the quick preparation of refreshing compounds.

Sticks cinnamon, whole cloves and various other spices, that may be steeped in the boiling syrup to give a variety of flavoring, are used for many of the clear drinks. For fruity drinks those in which a little grated coconut, shredded pineapple and thin slices or tiny cubes of oranges and grapefruit appear—the spice and root and bark flavors should not be included. There is a possibility of getting too much of a good thing even in the rich blendings. Fruit syrups also form the rich ingredient that holds the secret of many bottles of refreshments.

The pineapple is finely shredded with a fork into a bowl after the rind and the eyes have been removed. After a big pineapple has been shredded the juice collected in the bowl will be sufficient to flavor a good quantity of the honey and the pineapple beverage. If more is desired the shredded pulp may be squeezed lightly in a cheesecloth bag.

The juice is mixed with nearly its quantity of honey and the juice of one lemon to each half-pint of the compound is added. The mixture is thoroughly shaken or mixed in the bowl with an egg beater until the honey and sugar are well blended. When ready for serving this thick rich syrup is diluted with a little cold water without sugar, for the honey makes it sufficiently sweet.

The pineapple pulp, from which the juice has been partly extracted, is then boiled gently in a little sugar and water syrup with the grated rind of the lemon and four or five whole cloves. This syrup forms the foundation for a rich pineapple punch. Add to the orange syrup a dash of apple cut into tiny cubes or very thin shavings, a small sheet orange, and a few chopped candied cherries.

Tea, coffee and chocolate punches are also great favorites. For any of these beverages make a sugar-and-water syrup of two pounds of granulated sugar and a quart of water. When it has boiled gently until ready to spin a thin thread when dropped from the spoon, add a pint of strong freshly made coffee or tea, or half a cupful of rich melted chocolate, according to the sort of punch desired. For any of the three varieties lemon juice will be required for flavoring, and the additional fruit flavors may be added as desired, the preference being very thin slices of oranges and pineapples and bananas, or crushed peaches or cherries and berries according to the season. Just before being served the thick, richly flavored punch may be reduced with carbonated water, or simply with ice-cold water.

Pineapple shrub, served with beaten whites of eggs or whipped cream, is a favorite beverage which may be duplicated by currant or grape shrub. After shredding the pineapple or picking all stems from currants or grapes, heat the fruit with a little water until the juice runs freely. Then squeeze the fruit through a thin cheesecloth bag, and to each full quart of the liquid allow one pound of sugar, and simmer fruit juice and sugar together until the sugar is dissolved. When the mixture is cold, allow one egg and the juice of one lemon for each quart of syrup. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and after filling the glasses with the shrub add a little finely crushed ice and tablespoonfuls of plain white of egg or whipped cream, or a meringue made by beating a little powdered sugar into the eggs. Serve with soda straws.

For ginger frappe extract the rich flavoring of ginger root by boiling the crushed root in the usual sugar-and-water syrup, instead of using the bottled ginger ale. When richly flavored with the ginger root the hot syrup is strained and allowed to cool. Then the juice of three lemons and two oranges is added to each quart of the heavy ginger syrup, and when ready to serve, nearly half a glassful of finely crushed ice may be allowed to each glass of the frappe.

To a cup of cold water add a cupful of sugar and half a pound of chopped ginger; boil the mixture for fifteen minutes. To this add half a cupful each of orange, cherry and lemon juice. Cool and strain the mixture. This is best if made the night before it is to be used, and hung in the well—not in a tin pail—so that it will become cold. When it is ready to be served dilute it by adding at least a quart of fresh cold water. More water may be added if desired.

SOME SANDWICH SUGGESTIONS.

Three Spanish peppers, two hard-boiled eggs, one cream cheese, one tablespoonful of chopped onion, red pepper and salt. Dressing: One tablespoonful of sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonsfuls of vinegar, half a cupful of cream, one tablespoonful of flour. Chop the Spanish peppers, eggs, cheese, onion, salt and pepper, and when the dressing is cool mix all together. Spread between thin slices of buttered bread and serve.

As a change from the plain ham sandwich, add a chopped sweet pepper and a small bottle of pickles to a can of deviled ham.

To one can of deviled ham, add one cupful of mayonnaise, slices of white or brown bread and butter. Boil the ham for half an hour in a little boiling stock or water. Pound them and rub them through a sieve, then add the chopped olives and the mayonnaise. Season to taste.

Pound the yolks of two hard-cooked eggs to a smooth paste, then add one heaping tablespoonful of butter, a few dashes of salt, pepper and a dash of red pepper, and mix the mixture through a sieve spread on thin bread and butter, press well and trim.

Spread thin slices of bread with peanut butter mixed with very little milk and between two pieces lay slices of olive or fresh lettuce leaves. Another kind of sandwich which is as delightful as it is unusual is made by mixing grape jam and cream cheese together, and spreading the mixture on thin crackers.

Rinse some cherries and pineapple through the meat grinder. Mix with this a salad dressing and a few chopped nuts. Spread on the bread and then top with two slices together.

Spread thin slices of bread with peanut butter mixed with very little milk and between two pieces lay slices of olive or fresh lettuce leaves.

A combination of cream cheese with finely chopped walnuts or other nuts, mixed into a paste, makes a delicious filling for sandwiches. The bread may be cut into any shape desired; while a dainty touch can be given to each sandwich by placing on it a small dab of cream cheese and half a walnut meat.

Mix two cream cheeses with melted butter to make a paste. Add one small bottle of stuffed olives chopped fine, one hard-boiled egg chopped fine, a little salt, cayenne pepper and grated onion to season lightly. Spread the mixture on thin slices of bread.

Butter brown bread and spread with cream cheese seasoned with a little cayenne.

With white or peanut bread use let-uce leaves with a layer of chopped onions covered with vinegar, or with thin slices of lemon laid over it.

MOST CHILDREN HAVE WORMS

And another parent is asking the same question. We can't explain why your child has worms, but we can tell you how to get rid of them. The best way to get rid of worms is to eat a diet high in fiber. Fiber is found in whole grains, fruits, vegetables, and legumes. You can also take a daily supplement of fiber, such as psyllium husk, which is a type of fiber that helps to bind the stool. It's also a good idea to drink plenty of water, as it helps to flush out the worms.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of It in Bethel But Daily
Growing Less

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Bacchus is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.

It is often the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it.

Read what Dean's Kidney Pills have done for over-worked kidneys.

Proof of merit in the following statement:

L. C. Ames, Congress St., Rumford Falls, Me., says: "Dean's Kidney Pills relieved me in a short time of kidney trouble, which had annoyed me for quite awhile. I certainly am glad to recommend Dean's Kidney Pills."

POEMS WORTH READING

THE FATAL GARDEN.
Dr. Jagodz Chader Rose, who has studied plants in India, reports that they are actuated by the same passions and suffer the same pangs as human beings.

Whenever the beans I endeavored to plant,
The carrots grow jealous and wither
away;
And if I devote any time to the peas,
The egg plant gets pecked and refuses to lay.

The onion objects to the slightest attention
I pay to the beets or the early tomatoes,
And the cabbage gets riled, as a petulant child,
Whenever I hoe the potatoes.

The celery sulks if I water the corn,
The sensitive strawberry flushes and pouts
If I sprinkle the chives, and the radish is mown

Whenever they see me at work on the sprouts.

The spinach is lashed to a lather of fury
When the grape vine is pruned or the currants are sprayed,

And I don't dare to wash any bugs
off the squash,
Lest the turnip tops languish and fade.

And so, when the time of fruition arrives

And I seek some return from my number of toil,

I have neither onions nor spinach nor olives,

Nor cabbage nor celery; nothing but soil.

Thus, see, are they all, the unfortunate victims

Of jealousies, hates and vaulting ambitions;

For by some black mishap my particular plants

Had frightfully mean dispositions.

So we go

SOMETHING TO LIVE FOR.
Something to live for, that makes worth while

The toll and the struggle, and that's why we smile
at something to live for and look for ward to.

That's why the bright sun in clear blue shines sweetly around us and blue clouds make

In the path that we climb to the hopes that are wide.

Something to live for-like living for others,

All in the holy, sweet spirit of brothers;

And something to dream of and summon to feel,

Till the shadows go by and the clouds drift apart

and the joy of the sunshine burns bright in the heart.

Something to live for—that is the thing

Helps to lift up our heads and sing, to take the task daily with cheer and
with prayer,

And trust the long line of our trouble and care.

Well then let the shadow face deep as I am here and the return of tears will have conquered the song.

So we go

DON'T TAKE IT TO HEART.
Don't take it to heart,
Don't let it get you down,
And into the water of tears don't let me get you down,

Or I give it a permanent place in the heart.

So we go

Freelander's Garden.
We're not growing to furnish the wings

To some feathered

At the garden's end,

We're not the last note of barefoot things.

So we go

PAY AND PROMOTIONS IN OUR NAVY

Top, (right), Class work, Artificers' School, Norfolk, preparing men for promotion and increased pay. Bottom, seaman gunner's class in navy yard at Washington. Section under instruction overhauling seven inch gun.

THE United States navy is the best paid navy in the world, and it presents opportunities for advancement equal to those of almost any profession. A man-of-war's man never loses his job, even temporarily, for lack of work. He is always sure of his pay, of three substantial meals each day, of clean, healthful surroundings. His health is the primary concern of a skillful staff of physicians. In time of injury or illness he receives without cost the best medical and hospital attendance, and after thirty years of service he may retire on three-quarters of his pay, assured of a never failing income so long as he lives.

Excepting the cost of his clothing, after the first outfit, which is furnished gratis, and a deduction of 20 cents a month for the hospital fund, a man-of-war's man's pay is all "velvet." He has no board to pay, no rent and no doctor's bills. Considering his steady work and parquisites, he is much better off than the average mechanic or clerk contending with losses through ill health, strikes, weather and business depressions.

A recruit can readily see the position and salary he may earn by earnest and intelligent effort. From the time he enters the training station he receives useful instruction and encouragement. His advance can be measured only by his diligence, behavior and ability, for opportunities extend over a field offered by no other service. Seamen are required to steer, man the boats, the guns and turrets and do the general work of the ship outside of the engine room; clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers to handle records and accounts; nurses, stewards and cooks; electricians, machinists, plumbers, painters, ship fitters, coppersmiths and blacksmiths and boilermakers to keep up in repair; radio operators, mechanics, torpedo men to handle torpedoes.

The special service branches embrace seamen (clerks), nurses, musicians and cooks. In the seaman branch we find the men most intimately identified with the navigation and fighting of the ship, as seamen, gunners, torpedo men, quartermasters and boatswains, and in the officer branch the tradesmen of the navy, machinists, electricians, carpenters, coppersmiths, painters, etc. The following table gives their various ratings of each branch and the respective rates of pay:

Attractive as these inducements are, they by no means limit the advantages offered by the navy. Uncle Sam knows the value of experienced men, so when an honorably discharged man who is a United States citizen enlists the second time his pay is increased $6.00 a month and $2.00 a month more for each subsequent re-enlistment. In addition, he will get four months' pay and $1.50 a month if he re-enlists within four months. Second enlistment men have an opportunity to attend the prefer-titled to a pension equal to half pay and be admitted into the Naval home, Philadelphia, Pa.

Any enlisted person in the navy who has served thirty years may be placed on the retired list if he so desires. All service, whether in the navy, marine corps or army, is credited. On retirement he is allowed three-quarters of the pay he was receiving when retired and in addition thereto allowances amounting to $15.75 a month for quarters, quarters, fuel and light.

Promotion to the highest rank is open to the enlisted man. An American citizen he may be nominated for admission to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis by his congressman or senators, who have certain nominations in their giving. Last year at the earnest solicitation of Secretary Daniels congress authorized the secretary of the navy to appoint fifteen enlisted men to Annapolis each year. They must win the nomination in a competitive examination and must have completed one year's service with honor and be under twenty years of age. Enlisted men with good records, who are under twenty-six years of age, may also participate in examinations for the pay corps, appointments to grade may become ensigns upon qualifying in a competitive examination. It will be seen it is possible for enlisted men to become commissioned line officers without attending Annapolis at all.

A close inspection of the foregoing article will reveal the fact that it is now possible for a lad to enter the navy at the age of seventeen on the lowest rung of the ladder and in consequence of promotions due to diligence, good conduct and ability, retire as a chief petty officer at the age of forty-seven, when he is still capable of securing profitable employment in civil life, on a pay, including all allowances of $100 or more a month. This, it is needless to say, is not equaled by any industrial institution in the country.

This article is intended to inform young men of the opportunities offered by service in the navy. The bureau of navigation, Washington, and the navy recruiting office, Indianapolis, Ind., will be pleased to furnish any additional information desired. A man's success in the navy can be measured only by the staff that is in him. Intelligent attention to duty will receive its reward. As in every field of endeavor, the man is the architect of his own.

DIXFIELD.

At the regular meeting of King Hiram Lodge, F. & A. M., held Tuesday evening, June 29, at Masonic Hall, the M. M. degree was conferred upon four candidates by the Whitney Lodge of Canton in a very pleasing and impressive manner. A large number were present from the lodges of Bethel, Rumford, Portland, Norway, Wilton, South Paris, Strong and Wald, besides a large attendance from King Hiram Lodge. Speeches were enjoyed from members of the various lodges. Refreshments of chicken, ham and egg sandwiches, cheese, doughnuts, coffee, cake and ice cream, followed by a smoke talk, were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Rev. R. E. Gilkey, pastor of the Congregational Church, gave a very interesting discourse at the Sunday morning service from words found in Psalms 115-8. Topic, "Cherishing Correct Conception of God." The meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E., held in the evening at the chapel, was lead by George Hubbard, and was of special interest. Mr. Hubbard gave a pleasing address on "National Ideals."

Dr. James M. Sturtevant returned to Jersey City Thursday, after enjoying a two weeks vacation with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Sturtevant.

B. C. Waite and Andrew Haley of Canton were in town one day last week calling on friends.

George Gray and family went to Weld this week to spend the summer at their cottage on the shore of Lake Webb.

A. S. Morse and family from Chester, Mass., were guests Saturday of Mrs. Morse's aunt, Mrs. Ada Murch.

Walter Davenport, wife and child, from Rangeley were in town last week, visiting at the home of Will Davenport and family.

Orlando Biaboo and family and Frank Collins and family are enjoying a vacation of a few days at Lake Webb.

D. D. Berry of Berry Mills was in town on business, Saturday.

Quite a delegation of the village people attended the celebration at Rumford, Monday.

John Harlow, Jr., a student at Harvard College, came last week to spend the summer vacation with his parents, Hon. J. S. Harlow and wife.

Several relatives in town attended the funeral service of Mrs. Tyler Hutchinson, which was held at Berry Mills, Thursday of last week. Rev. R. E. Gilkey of this place officiated at the service.

In preparing the varnish the oil is first boiled and burned until it arrives at the proper consistency when the resin is stirred in. The pigment is added and the mass ground to an impalpable fineness. Of course, every manufacturer has his own methods and trade secrets, which is only to be expected when it is realized what care and precision the printing-ink maker has to exercise. Such an ink must have free distribution, leaving the work clear and sharp with no oil on the paper; it must not adhere too tenaciously to the types, but leave them clean, and must at the same time dry quickly on the paper, but not on the rollers; besides which it must be proof against the effect of time.

In the manufacture of the common black ink, lampblack and carbon black are the most common pigments. They are really the same thing, that is, finely divided carbon, but differ in the process of manufacture. Sometimes a little indigo or Prussian blue is also employed with the carbon. For wood engraving carbon and ivory black or a very fine bone black known as Frankfort black, are mixed. In lithographic reproductions Paris black is used.

The ingredients in colored inks include some chemically made colors, such as vermilion, prussian or bronze blue, chrome yellow and ultramarine blue. The "fake" pigments, made by precipitating a coal tar dyestuff on a metallic base, produce colors of great brilliancy and extreme fineness of texture. Natural earth colors are not used as formerly, their shades being now matched in the "lake" colors. Red ink is made with carmine or cochineal, and in cheap inks, red, but it rapidly blackens and is consequently unsuitable for permanent work. Blue inks are made from indigo or prussian blue; yellow with lead chromate or yellow ochre; green and purple by mixing yellow and blue, and red and blue, respectively.

The only white ink sufficiently opaque to appear white on a dark surface is made from white lead. Tints and light tones of the various colors are made by mixing the colors with one white or another transparent base such as magnesia or blanck fixe.

Ink making machinery consists of several types of mixing machines, with which the medium and dry color are first roughly mixed together, and mills on which the mass is thoroughly ground. The type of machine used depends upon the character of the ingredients and the result desired. Ink for use on soft absorbent paper, such as "news" ink, requires very little grinding and no preliminary mixing, while other varieties are not only run over the mixer, but receive repeated grindings on roll or mill.
